

WPP Launches New Website for Investors
21 March 2001

WPP has launched a new website aimed specifically at its growing and increasingly international investor base.

The new site, wppinvestor.com, provides a full range of information for existing and potential share owners.

wppinvestor.com goes beyond the fare of conventional corporate investor sites such as stock quotes, financial news and statements to offer transcripts and slides of presentations to analysts and investors, full corporate governance and citizenship policies, and a full calendar of financial and industry events which WPP will be attending.

Above all, the site focuses on the needs of the investor online, not least by enabling investors to read, download, print and manipulate information in many different formats, pushing the boundaries of best practice in this important communications discipline.

The site was developed by syzygy AG (www.syzygy.net), a leading European eBusiness consultancy.
